

Answer the following questions.

a. What is the story about Steve Jobs' birth?

The story about Steve Jobs' birth is that he was adopted by Paul and Clara Jobs. When his biological parents found out they were having a boy, they wanted him to be adopted by college-educated parents. Paul and Clara were not college-educated, but they promised to do their best to provide Steve with a good education.

b. What does he mean when he says, “you can’t connect the dots looking forward; you can only connect them looking backward”?

When Steve Jobs says, “you can’t connect the dots looking forward; you can only connect them looking backward,” he means that you cannot predict the future or know how things will turn out. It is only when you look back on your life that you can see how the events and choices have led you to where you are now.

c. What happened when Steve Jobs turned 30?

When Steve Jobs turned 30, he was fired from the company he had started, Apple. He says this was the best thing that could have happened to him because it allowed him to start over and pursue his other passions.

d. Jobs contends that you need to love to do what you do in order to be great at it. Do you agree or disagree? Why?

Jobs contends that you need to love what you do in order to be great at it because passion is what drives you to keep going, even when things get difficult. It also makes you more creative and innovative because you are invested in what you are doing. I agree with this because when you are passionate about something, it doesn't feel like work, and you are more likely to put in the time and effort to become great at it.

e. Is death really life's greatest invention?

When Steve Jobs says, "death is life's greatest invention," he means that death is what gives life meaning and urgency. Knowing that our time is limited makes us appreciate life more and motivates us to make the most of our time.

Reference to the context

a. Read the extract given below and answer the questions that follow:
“We have an unexpected baby boy; do you want him?” They said: “Of course.”

i. Who was the baby boy?

The baby boy is Steve Jobs.

ii. What does ‘do you want him?’ mean?

"Do you want him?" means do you want to adopt him?

iii. Who does ‘they’ refer to?

"They" refers to Paul and Clara Jobs.

b. Explain the following lines:

i. “You have to trust in something — your gut, destiny, life, karma, whatever.”

When Steve Jobs says, "you have to trust in something - your gut, destiny, life, karma, whatever," he means that you have to have faith in something and believe that things will work out as they are supposed to.

ii. “Your time is limited, so don’t waste it living someone else’s life.”

"Your time is limited, so don't waste it living someone else's life," means that you should not spend your life trying to please others or live up to their expectations. You should follow your own path and do what makes you happy.

c. What does he mean by “don’t settle”?

When Steve Jobs says, "don't settle," he means that you should not be content with mediocrity or accept less than what you are capable of. You should strive for excellence and push yourself to be the best you can be.

d. Which style of speech is used by the speaker to persuade the audience?

Steve Jobs uses a persuasive style of speech, which includes using vivid language, repetition, and personal stories to connect with his audience and make them believe in his message.

e. It is not easy to motivate others. How do you think Steve Jobs’ speech is so inspiring?

Steve Jobs' speech is inspiring because he speaks from personal experience and uses stories that people can relate to. He also speaks with conviction and passion, which is contagious and makes people want to believe in what he is saying.

f. Why do you think Steve Jobs used the personal narrative storytelling technique in his speech? What influence does it have on the audiences?

Steve Jobs used the personal narrative storytelling technique in his speech to create a connection with his audience and to make his message more relatable. By sharing his personal struggles and successes, he was able to inspire and motivate others to pursue their own dreams.

Reference beyond the text

a. One of Steve Jobs's mottos was: 'Think differently'. Can this make a person succeed in life? What challenges are there in thinking differently?

Thinking differently can help a person succeed in life by giving them a unique perspective and allowing them to see opportunities that others may overlook. However, thinking differently can also be challenging because it can be difficult to break away from the status quo and to be accepted by others who may not understand your perspective.

b. What does the slogan “Stay hungry; stay foolish” mean to you?

The slogan "Stay hungry; stay foolish" means that you should always be curious and open-minded, and never be satisfied with what you have achieved. It encourages people to continue learning and exploring new things, even if it means taking

c. What does it mean to be a visionary? What makes Steve Jobs different from a fortune teller?

Being a visionary means having the ability to imagine or anticipate future possibilities and trends, and take actions to create a desired future outcome. It involves having a clear and creative vision of what could be, and the ability to inspire others to work towards that vision. A visionary is often able to see opportunities where others only see problems or obstacles.

Steve Jobs was a visionary because he had a clear vision for the future of technology and was able to create innovative products that transformed the way people interacted with technology. He was able to anticipate and create new trends in technology and design, such as the graphical user interface, the iPod, and the iPhone.

In contrast, a fortune teller is someone who claims to predict the future through supernatural means. The difference between a visionary and a fortune teller is that a visionary creates the future they envision through hard work, creativity, and innovation, while a fortune teller claims to have knowledge of the future without any evidence or action to back it up.

Steve Jobs' success as a visionary came from his ability to combine his imagination and creativity with his technical knowledge and business acumen. He was able to take risks and make bold decisions that transformed the technology industry. Steve Jobs was not simply predicting the future, but actively creating it through his vision and leadership.

